ALUMNI BANQUET TO-NIGHT

Old Grads Coming in Large Number to Attend Dinner at Business Men's Club.

With merry ribes, the foibles of the entire class were exposed to public view last night at the closing exercises of the class of 1913, Richmond College. The finals were held in the college chapel before an audience that filled the handsomely decorated auditorium. Each member was forced to stand with all eyes focused on him, or her, while all noticeable characteristics were freely commented on and gently ridiculed.

Last night the graduating class held sway. To-day the graduates of former years come into their own once again. Alumni yesterday overflowed the college campus, which they trod as students, and all brought messages of more visitors to arrive to-day. The crowning event of Alumni Day will be the annual banquet to-night at the Business Men's Club. Here, around the festive board, the old grads will recall the bygone days.

Another feature of to-day's program will be the coronation of the Westhampton Park. The administrative building, which will form the center of the group of handsome structures that will house Richmond College in 1915, will be dedicated at 4 o'clock. Richmond Lodge, No. 10, A. F. & A. M., will have charge of the ceremonies. Architect Cram, under whose supervision the plans were drawn, will be the principal speaker.

Alumni Win Ball Game.
The real beginning of commencement week was yesterday. Freed from the grind of daily classes, the students threw themselves up to unalloyed pleasure. Horseplay marked the morning hours, while in the afternoon there was a ball game between the "Alumni" and "Varsity." The former, upholding records of former days on the diamond, trounced the youngsters by the score of 15 to 5. The day's sport culminated in a daily class reunion, in which the seniors in honor of the undergraduates.

The final exercises were presided over by the presidents of the two departments—Ellis Carl Primm, representing the academic, and Thomas C. Fletcher, the law. The academic oration was delivered by Joseph Payne Sneed, while Andrew Jackson Ellis performed the same duties for the law class.

The former spoke on the subject, "Memory's Message," and the latter on "The Ideal Lawyer." John Jordan Wicker, Jr., only handsomely the difficult task of exposing the past history of thirty-two classmates. P. A. L. Smith, Jr., presented the history of the future lawyers.

At the alumni banquet to-night, S. H. Tompkins will act as toastmaster. The principal address will be made by Dr. J. W. Conkack. Others who will speak are: T. Justin Moore, representing the class of five years ago; Rev. John W. Kinchelow, ten years; Professor A. M. Carroll, twenty-five years; and Professor Frank Gaines, the class of 1912.

The annual meeting of the college trustees will be held this morning at 11 o'clock. The trustees will attend the corner-stone laying in a body.

Doesn't Believe It Sincere.
Pittsburgh, Pa., June 9.—John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared his belief to-day that the suit in West Virginia against the United Mine Workers' officials, under the antitrust law, "just throwing" more to detract attention from real conditions in that state.

"The United Mine Workers, a law-abiding organization, however, is ready and willing to have any of its acts investigated," said President White.

BRIDGE AT CANAL DECLARED UNSAFE

Board Directs Chesapeake and Ohio to Replace Wooden Structure With Concrete.

The Administrative Board yesterday condemned as unsafe and dangerous the wooden bridge over the canal, maintained by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway at Seventh and Byrd Streets. An order was entered directing the railroad to replace the wooden bridge with a concrete structure. The Chesapeake and Ohio was ordered also to replace at once the granite spall paving on the roadbed on Ninth Street where its tracks cross the street between Canal and Cary.

Superintendent Cohn, of the Street Cleaning Department, reported vacancies on his force caused by the resignation of A. E. Stutz, C. Burdoin, Joseph Whitman, Henry Floids, Albert Carroll, and Jack Kahn. The board approved his recommendation that the positions be filled by the appointment of J. S. Bowden, T. H. Nolte, R. A. Clark, W. L. McCauley, L. F. Pugh and B. R. Foster.

The Superintendent of the Water Works recommended the extension of water mains in several streets where sewers have already been laid. The board authorized the extension of water facilities in Dance Street from Carter to Meadow Streets, and in Wallace Street between Meadow and Ritchie Streets.

Chief Health Officer E. C. Levy reported to the board the unsanitary flooding of the basements of the store building at 765-21 West Broad Street. He recommended as a health measure the construction of sewers from Pine and Grace Streets northward along Pine Street to the alley in the rear of the stores mentioned, and thence westward along the alley to Laurel Street. The construction of such a sewer, he thought, would provide the proper drainage. The matter was referred to the City Engineer with instructions to report an estimate of the cost of construction.

OFFERED CHANCE TO PROVE SANITY

Court, Chaloner asked for an additional allowance of $16,000 a year. In the papers submitted is an affidavit by J. M. Sherman declaring that if Chaloner will leave his estate at J. M. Mills, Va., come to New York and show his capability of managing his property, his committee will not oppose his application or attempt to prove his sanity.

It is intimated that when a referee with the consent of the various members of the Chaloner family.

Chaloner alleges in his application that he wants his yearly allowance increased to supply funds for certain reforms he wishes to bring about in the lunacy laws of New York.

He has written a book called "Four Years Behind the Bars of Bloomingdale," to prove his contention that the lunacy laws permit frauds on sane persons. This work and a volume of poems, entitled "Scenopie," were submitted to Justice Giechler as proof of the sanity of the writer. One of the poems in the latter volume reads as follows:

The Three Flies.
Sprightly companions of my dungeon cell,
Who'd ever think a man could like
Being alone, and yet you've got caught in Such a hell,
In which I've watched the months
And years roll by.

The three flies do frequent visit me
Within the confines of my couch's net.
Time treats the little rascals tenderly.
At their antics—pon my soul, I'm Laughing yet.

They're married now, and lead lives of repute;
Clean, wholesome lives, as wholesome
as beings should.

Which proves that you can civilize a brute.

They'd buzz what I say's true, if but they could.
Long life to the "Three Little Flies," cry I.

Chaloner asserts in his petition that he was lured to New York by the late Stanford White and thrown into Bloomingdale upon the casual examination of two physicians and without a chance to defend himself.

Justice Giechler reserved decision.

suspected the existence of a lobby here, he had no actual knowledge of it.

President Wilson told callers to-day he expected the lobby investigation to have beneficial results through the publicity given to conditions surrounding the making of the tariff bill. When asked his opinion of the charge made by Senator Townsend as to his own influence with reference to legislation, the President replied that it needed no comment.
